

names of contributors
 written by Henry Channing
 of. Transl. reprint of Dial,
 Suff. vol. 1, p. VII.

CONTENTS.

No. I.

The Editors to the Reader	Emerson	1
A Short Essay on Critics	M. F.	5
To the Aurora Borealis	Emerson	11
Notes from the Journal of a Scholar	Charles Emerson	13
The Religion of Beauty	Swiss	17
Brownson's Writings	Rev. R. S. May	22
The Last Farewell	Edmund Emerson	47
Ernest the Seeker (Chapter First)	W. H. Channing	48
The Divine Presence in Nature and in the Soul	Parker	58
Sympathy	H. D. J.	71
Lines	Ellen Emerson	72
Allston Exhibition	M. Fuller	73
Song — To . . .	C. J. Tappan	84
Orphic Sayings		85
Stanzas	Emerson	98
Channing's Translation of Jouffroy		99
Aulus Persius Flaccus	H. D. J.	117
The Shield	Shaw	121
The Problem	do	122
Come Morir?	S. Ward	123
The Concerts of the past Winter	Swright	124
A Dialogue	M. F.	134
Richter — The Morning Breeze	Blanke	135
Dante — Sketches		136

No. II.

Thoughts on Modern Literature	R. W. E.	137
Silence	do	158

First Crossing the Alleghanies	J. F. Clarke	159
A Sign from the West	do.	161
Angelica Sleeps	do.	172
Nature and Art, or the Three Landscapes	do.	173
The Art of Life, — The Scholar's Calling	W. E. R.	175
Letter to a Theological Student	Ripley	183
"The Poor Rich Man"	S. E. W.	187
Musings of a Recluse		188
The Wood-Fire	Ellen Hooper	193
The Day Breaks	do.	193
The Poet	do.	194
Life	Caroline Tappan	195
Evening	do.	195
A Lesson for the Day	Parker	196
Wayfarers	C. Tappan	216
From Goethe	do.	216
Pæan Z	Caroline Tappan	217
Lyric	do.	217
Truth against the World	Parker	218
Waves	Emerson	219
New Poetry	Emerson	220
Art and Artist		222
Ernest the Seeker (Chapter Second)	W. A. Channing	233
Woodnotes	Emerson	242
Life and Death	C. Tappan	245

RECORD OF THE MONTHS.

The Works of William E. Channing, D. D. Four Volumes.
Third Edition. Glasgow. 1840	246
Two Sermons on the Kind Treatment and on the Emancipation of Slaves. Preached at Mobile. With a Prefatory Statement.
By GEORGE F. SIMMONS	248
A Letter to those who think. By EDWARD PALMER	251
Professor Walker's Vindication of Philosophy	256
The Athenæum Exhibition of Painting and Sculpture	260
Select List of Recent Publications	264

No. III.

Man in the Ages	Stone	273
Afternoon	C. Tappan	289

CONTENTS.

v

Questionings	Branch	290
Endymion	do	291
Hymn and Prayer	Allen Hooper	292
Klopstock and Meta	M. Fuller	293
The True in Dreams		298
The Magnolia of Lake Pontchartrain	M. Fuller	299
Love and Insight	C. Tappan	305
Sunset		305
Give us an Interpreter		306
Ideals of Every-Day Life. No. I.	Dwight	307
To Nydia		312
The Violet		314
Stanzas		314
German Literature	Parker	315
The Snow Storm	W. Emerson	339
Menzel's View of Goethe	M. Fuller	340
Suum Cuique	Emerson	347
The Sphinx	Anonymous	348
Orphic Sayings	Alcott	351
Woman		362
Sonnet	Lowell	366
Thoughts on Art	Emerson	367
Glimmerings	Branch	379
Letters from Italy on the Representatives of Italy	Ward	386
To the Ideal	Allen Hooper	400

RECORD OF THE MONTHS.

Michael Angelo considered as a Philosophic Poet, with Translations. By JOHN EDWARD TAYLOR	401
Select List of Recent Publications	402

No. IV.

The Unitarian Movement in New England	Repley	409
Dream	Dwight	443
Ideals of Every-Day Life. No. II.	Dwight	446
Listen to the Wind	C. Tappan	461
The Wind again		461
Leila	M. Fuller	462

Poems on [Art]	468
Hermitage	469
The Angel and the Artist	469
Shelley	470
A Dialogue in Fuller	494
Thoughts on Labor	497
The Out-Bid	519
Theme for a World-Drama	520
Man the Reformer	523
Music of the Winter Dwight	539
Farewell	544

THE DIAL.

VOL. I.

JULY, 1840.

No. I.

THE EDITORS TO THE READER.

WE invite the attention of our countrymen to a new design. Probably not quite unexpected or unannounced will our Journal appear, though small pains have been taken to secure its welcome. Those, who have immediately acted in editing the present Number, cannot accuse themselves of any unbecoming forwardness in their undertaking, but rather of a backwardness, when they remember how often in many private circles the work was projected, how eagerly desired, and only postponed because no individual volunteered to combine and concentrate the free-will offerings of many coöperators. With some reluctance the present conductors of this work have yielded themselves to the wishes of their friends, finding something sacred and not to be withstood in the importunity which urged the production of a Journal in a new spirit.

As they have not proposed themselves to the work, neither can they lay any the least claim to an option or determination of the spirit in which it is conceived, or to what is peculiar in the design. In that respect, they have obeyed, though with great joy, the strong current of thought and feeling, which, for a few years past, has led many sincere persons in New England to make new demands on literature, and to reprobate that rigor of our conventions of religion and education which is turning us to stone, which renounces hope, which looks only backward, which asks only such a future as the past, which

VOL. I. — NO. I.

I

81489